++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:

Heavy showers and thunderstorms possible each day until Tuesday.

Today:

After a generally cloudy and dry start, scattered showers and sunny spells develop through the morning. Some of these showers could turn heavy in the afternoon and pose a risk of thunder. Feeling warm in any sunshine. Maximum temperature 21 deg C (70 deg F).

Tonight:

Showers gradually ease through the evening as cloud clears. Dry for most overnight, but cloud encroaching from the southwest could bring a few showers into southern and western areas. Minimum temperature 12 deg C (54 deg F).

Sunday:

Scattered showers develop again through the day, some of which could be heavy and possibly thundery. Sunny spells are likely but turning cloudier through the afternoon. Maximum temperature 21 deg C (70 deg F).

Outlook for Monday to Wednesday:

Cloudy on Monday, with scattered, potentially heavy showers and a risk of thunder and hail. Similar showers on Tuesday, though skies brighter. Drier on Wednesday, with sunny spells.
